

CALL FOR PAPERS: UC BERKELEY CENTER FOR RESPONSIBLE BUSINESS INVITES APPLICANTS FOR 2017 MOSKOWITZ PRIZE FOR RESPONSIBLE INVESTING

Winner to be recognized at The 28th Annual SRI Conference

COLORADO SPRINGS, CO. AND BERKELEY, CA//May 9, 2017//The Center for Responsible Business at UC Berkeley's Haas School of Business (Berkeley-Haas) has announced a call for papers for the 22nd annual Moskowitz Prize.

The Moskowitz Prize is a unique academic award recognizing outstanding quantitative research in sustainable and responsible impact (SRI) investing. The prize was named for Milton Moskowitz, one of the first investigators to publish comparisons of financial performance of screened and unscreened portfolios.

Winners will receive a $5,000 award and be recognized November 1–3, 2017 in San Diego, CA at The SRI Conference, the largest and longest running conference serving impact-oriented investment professionals and institutional investors in North America. A breakout session on the winning paper will be featured in the conference program.

Entries are reviewed by an independent jury of scholars and investment professionals. The winner is determined based on practical significance to responsible investment practitioners, appropriateness and rigor of quantitative methods, and novelty of results.

For more information: <http://responsiblebusiness.haas.berkeley.edu/research/moskowitz-research-prize.html>.

DEADLINE: Studies must be submitted by 11:59pm PST, June 30, 2017. The competition is open to authors of studies relevant to responsible investing. Studies may be published or unpublished. Unpublished studies should be of a quality appropriate for publication in a peer-reviewed academic journal. For details about the submission process: <https://responsiblebusiness.submittable.com/submit>.
